

Hello LV Partner,

We hope you and those around you are staying safe and well during this COVID-19 pandemic. Maybe you're finding yourself a little stir crazy during this confinement and you're feeling the walls closing in. At Lakeview, we think camp makes life better and since you can't come to us, we're sending Lakeview to you! Join us for Camp Q as we let loose, go a little crazy, and dive into God's Word.

Use the attached schedule in whatever way works best for your family. You can use it as a guide for a one day family camp or you can spread the activities throughout the week as you home-school. Whatever you choose to do, make sure it's fun, make some memories, and post some videos so we can all share Camp Q together! #LVCampQ

Camp Q Family Devo

Ask: What are some things you expect God to do? What are some things you have trouble believing He can do?

Parents: It's easy to look at the events around us and take on a negative worldview. After all, we know that in the last days evil will pervade the minds and hearts of humankind (2 Tim. 3:1-5). But that doesn't mean we shouldn't expect God to continue working and showing Himself mightily throughout the world. Instead, we should keep praying in expectation because God "wants everyone to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth" (1 Tim. 2:1-4). This is the perspective we must also cling to today. When we understand that God is working to fill the earth with the knowledge of His glory, even when the world seems full of despair and uncertainty, we will hope, ask, and expect more in prayer.

Read Ephesians 3:20-21.

What do these verses tell you about God?

Why doesn't God always give us what we want? What's the right way to respond to the disappointment that comes when we don't get what we want?

Parents: Paul wrote this prayer in a time when the world seemed to be spinning out of control. He was imprisoned in Rome, and to be a believer anywhere invited persecution. It was in this context that Paul prayed for spiritual strength, deep faith, abundant love, and God's fullness to be made evident in the lives of believers—that they would be filled with the intimate knowledge of His glory. And Paul's expectation was not only that the believers would know God in this way, but that God's fullness would extend out from those who follow Him to all generations, forever and ever (Eph. 3:21).

Considering what is going on in the world and God's unimaginable power, what is something we can pray for Him to do? How might God want to use you immeasurably more to carry out His purposes in the world right now?

Parents— the following commentary can help you discuss these truths with your children.

3:20. Paul ends his discussion of the mystery of the church and his prayer for power with a spontaneous burst of praise to God. His prayer forms a great doxology to the Lord for His power and glory. We see three things emerging from this doxology. First, we see the sovereignty of God. God in His sovereignty may choose to do whatever He wills. What He can do far exceeds anything we can dream or imagine, must less ask for. God's sovereignty means our prayers can be answered far beyond even what we ask.

Second, we see the omnipotence of God. God manifests His great power in many ways. Most obviously, He manifested it when He created the world. He used that kind of power to bring Jews and Gentiles together and form them into a dwelling of God in the Spirit. The power we see in creation and in the church is the power of God that works in us in the love relationship of prayer.

3:21. Finally, we see His glory. The power God has manifested and continues to display has a purpose—bringing glory to Him. All that God has done is to resound to His glory forever. God has done things in the church among His people and in Christ Jesus—where His people now abide and where God completed His plan of salvation. As we see and recognize God's work in the church and in Christ, we respond in praise and worship, giving God glory.
